It's going from bad to worse! Not only does our registration system seem a bit buggy but now it looks like the email system has been dysfunctional for a while too! Time to go back to school for the School Recipes administrator!

Anyway, we'll try and get all these things sorted out in the near future along with getting some more new recipes on to the site all alongside a migration to a faster server - well, if that works it will be a miracle. So, please bear with us during these challenging times and we'll hopefully get a newer, slicker School Recipes up on to the world wide web as soon as we stop stuffing our faces with Crunch and get on with some work!
